

Jack Daniel's

OLD No. 7 SOUR
TIME MASH.

Made at the old-time distillery, Lynchburg, Tennessee, the home of pure whiskey for a century.

Gold Medals and Diplomas Awarded at St. Louis, 1904—Liege, Belgium, 1905

At the Club or at Home

Jack Daniel's No. 7 is the peer of whiskey. It satisfies. Its mellow flavor brings delight to the palate. Straight or high-ball, cocktail or toddy, it's the whiskey used by those who really know.

Its absolute purity and ripe maturity make it delicious in health, necessary in illness.

12 full quarts No. 7, $15 75, express prepaid.
4 full quarts No. 7, $ 6 00, express prepaid.
12 quarts 5 to a gallon, $12 75, express prepaid.
4 quarts 5 to a gallon, $ 5 00, express prepaid.
Jack Daniel No. 7, bulk, age and proof considered, $4.00 to $6.00 per gallon.

We are compelled to make the advances in the prices as above on account of having to shut down our distillery in Tennessee. We sell nothing but the strictly pure article as it comes from the still and as we do not mix nor blend our whiskey age and proof fix the price.

All mail orders carefully and promptly attended to. Address all orders to Sarcasm Probably Wasted.

One of the wittiest of Parisians, in a friend's box at the opera, was listening to "Thais," or rather trying to do so, for his hostess talked incessantly and deafened the music with her shrill voice. At the end of the opera she invited him to the next subscribers' night. "With pleasure," replied he; "I have never heard you in 'Faust.'"

THE END OF THE WORLD.

One Theory as to How the Fearful Climax May Come.

What will be the end of the world? This is a question which was formerly asked of soothsayers and prophets and often answered by them with definite statements and dates which were, to those who believed them, to the last degree disquieting. Such prophets and prophecies have all been proved erroneous, and the Millerites and their kin have all been laughed out of serious consideration. Science has taught us better, and yet science, which seeks always new facts and revised reasoning, is now teaching us that our faith in the safety of the solar system is misplaced.

Instead of the eternally changeless procession of the planets about the sun and of our solar system about some other greater sun, astronomers find grave evidence of what seems disorder in what we thought was perpetual perfection, a disorder which may—indeed, probably will—some time wreck our own planet. It is possible—astronomically considered, it is probable—that unseen within the remote confines of space the vast mass of a dead world is hurtling toward our sun with inconceivable velocity. In time the two will come together and the immeasurable heat produced will make gas of granite and floating clouds of nebulae of us all, for thus worlds die and thus they are immediately in process of being born again, for out of the condensation of this nebula will come the beginnings of a new solar system which will in the countless eons of astronomical time go through the same process of evolution and decay.—Technical World Magazine.

Managing a Drawer.

A woman will take the smallest drawer in a dressing table for her own private use and will pack away in it bright bits of boxes of all shades and sizes, dainty fragments of ribbons, scraps of lace, foamy ruffles, velvet things for the neck, bundles of old love letters, pieces of jewelry, handkerchiefs, fans, things that no man knows the name of, all sorts of fresh, bright looking knickknacks that you could not catalogue in a column, and she can go to that drawer any hour of the day or night and pick out any article she may happen to want without disturbing anything else.

And a man, having the biggest and deepest and widest drawer assigned him, will throw into it three socks, a collar box, an old necktie, two handkerchiefs, a pipe and a pair of braces, and to save his life he can't shut that drawer without leaving more ends sticking out than there are things in it, and it always looks as though it had been packed with a hydraulic press.—Exchange.

Not Guilty.

Martin Gosford's hens received so much blame to which they were justly entitled that when their owner could prove them guiltless of depredations he hastened to their defense. "My flower beds are in a terrible condition, Mr. Gosford," said one of his summer neighbors one day.

"I know they be; I know they be," groaned Martin. "But my hens didn't do it this time, Mis' Gage!"

"Are you sure?" asked the lady in a tone of chill doubt.

"Yes, ma'am, I am," said Martin, with emphasis. "There was only one chicken, Mis' Gage, and it hadn't but just went into the front bed when I set my dog after it, and he chased that chicken through every last one of them flower beds till he got it headed for home, an' there wasn't nary another chicken nor hen dast go nigh 'em."—Youth's Companion.

Thoughtful Husband.

Parting is hard to bear, and the young man who endeavors to soften its pangs for his bride of a month certainly deserves commendation.

"And now that our honeymoon is over and we are settled in our own home must you leave me for three whole days for the sake of business, Henry?" asked the clinging wife in a tone of reproach.

"I must, dear Mabel," said the young husband. "But to make the separation seem less abrupt I am going on the accommodation train instead of the express."

Asbestos.

The mystery of the mineral kingdom is asbestos. It is, in fact, so much of a puzzle that many scientists look upon it as a sort of link between the mineral and the vegetable world. It might be said to resemble a mineralogical vegetable, possessing the curious properties found in both, for it is at once fibrous and crystalline, elastic and brittle, heavy as a rock when taken from the mines, but light as spun silk when treated mechanically.

Just a Fit.

In the Ex-Libris Journal an amusing anecdote is given of a man anxious for a coat of arms and fortunate in finding one. A secondhand bookseller bought at a country sale some 300 volumes of handsome but unsalable old sermons, books on theology and the like.

He placed a number of these outside his shop. Soon after a well-dressed man entered and said, "Have you any more of this kind of books with this shield on them?" pointing to the bookplate attached, which bore the arms and name of a good old country family.

"That box, sir, is full of books from the same house," answered the bookseller.

"What do you ask for them?" inquired the man. "I'm going back to Chicago, and I want to take some books, and these will just fit me, name and all. Just you sort out all that have that shield and name, but don't you send any without that nameplate, for that's my name too. I reckon this old fellow with the daggers and roosters might have been related to me some way."

Picking a Horse.

A British cavalry officer, speaking of horses, said:

"Give me a tree hand and I should pick a roan—that is, for good temper and quick learning. Dark grays and blacks are mostly strong and hardy, and so are dark chestnuts. As a general rule, light chestnuts and light bays are nervous and delicate. A rusty black's a sulky pig nine times out of ten. Then, again, there are 'white stockings,' as they call them. You know the old saying, 'One white leg's a bad un, two white legs you may sell to a friend, three white legs you may trust for a time, four white legs you may lay your life on.'"

This does not agree with an old Yankee saying:

One white foot, buy him;
Two white feet, try him;
Three white feet, look well about him;
Four white feet, go on without him.

Now, however, the American idea is similar to that of the sergeant, and they say, "Four white feet you can stake your life on him."—London Spectator.

An Ingenious Device.

When Sir Robert Perks' school days were over he entered the office of a firm of lawyers and worked very hard. It was no uncommon thing to find him reading law at 5 in the morning, and this often after he had been working late on the previous night. As a matter of fact, he made it an inflexible rule never to be in bed of a morning after 5. To enforce this rule he invented an ingenious device. This consisted of a long glass tube filled with water nicely balanced over his head and attached by a string to an alarm. At the desired hour the bell rang and awakened the sleeper. If within a few seconds he did not leap from his bed and avert the calamity the descending weight of the clock destroyed the balance of the tube, and down poured the water on his guilty head!—From "The Life Story of Sir Robert W. Perks, Bart, M. P.," by Dennis Crane.

The Limit.

There is a blacksmith who has a shop downtown and who has a reputation for good work, especially in the making of ice tongs. But he claims to be an expert on any kind of ironwork.

Recently a man dropped in on him while he was working on a pair of ice books.

"I see you are an expert on ice books," said the caller.

"Oh, yes! I make ice books putty good," remarked the mechanic, "unt I also shoe your horses or do other ironwork just so good."

"Well," said the caller, "I've got a stove on which the hinges need repairing. Can you fix them?"

The blacksmith drew himself up, to his full height and scornfully asked, "Do you think I am a dodgasted jeweler?"—St. Joseph Gazette.

The Comparison.

Dropping into the Garrick club one afternoon, Charles Brookfield, the dramatist, found a well-known actor, who happened to be playing David Garrick at the time, reclining in a chair right under the portrait of the immortal "Davy." Brookfield stopped in front of him and looked first at the portrait and then at the man. "By Jove, old fellow," he exclaimed at last, "you grow more and more like Garrick every day!"

"Do you really think so, Brookfield?" returned the delighted victim.

"Yes," came the crushing retort, "and less and less like him every night."—London Tatler.

Unique American Families.

The Harrison family, like the Adams family of Massachusetts, on its illustrious genealogical tree carries the names of one signer of the Declaration of Independence and two presidents of the United States, and in this record the Adamases and the Harrison stand apart in a class by themselves. These distinctions in one family, it can be noted, will never again be equalled. It remains unique in the history of the country.

An Eye to Safety.

Living Skeleton (president of Freaks' Secret society)—Our organization, ladies and gentlemen, is about perfected. It will be necessary, however, to elect a treasurer. Who shall it be? Chorus of Members—The legless wonder!

Accommodating.

Jinks—Have you got quarters for a dollar, old man? Winks—My vest pocket is rather crowded, but pass it over and I'll try to make room for it.

Jealousy is a secret atavism of one's inferiority.—Massillon.
